This is my opinion .
This is my thesis statement .
Body paragraph 1: Argument which supports my opinion > topic sentence
Body Paragraph 1: examples/reasoning/evidence which support my argument (detailed, specific)
Body Paragraph 2: Argument which supports my opinion > topic sentence
Body Paragraph 2: examples/reasoning/evidence which support my argument (detailed, specific)
Idea for conclusion : more than just a summary of your argumentation. Add a prediction, a warning, a call for action, refer back to the intro etc.
Are there any opposing arguments that can easily be refuted? Use them in your thesis and/or your topic sentences, forming clauses starting with "whereas" or "while" (but don't do it all the time!).
